1. The disclosure should be carefully reviewed and ensure that any and all grammatical, idiomatic, and spelling or other minor errors are corrected.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-13 are indefinite because in independent claim 1, lines 7-12, and independent claim 9, lines 6-9, "a second switching element including a second control electrode having capacitance larger than the capacitance of the first control electrode of the first switching element and an on-resistance smaller than the on-resistance of the first switching element" is contradicting to which described in the Specification, page 10, line 24 to page 6, line 2: "The second switching element M3 has an on-resistance larger than the on-resistance of the first switching element M1 and a gate capacitance smaller than the gate capacitance of the first switching element M1".

3. Claims 1-13 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: none of prior art of record taken alone or in combination shows a a switching regulator and a method thereof for converting an input voltage to a predetermined voltage and outputting the predetermined voltage to a load through an output terminal, comprising: a first switching element including a first control electrode, said first switching element performing switching according to a control signal input to the first control electrode and controlling outputting the input voltage; a second switching element including a second control electrode having capacitance larger than the capacitance of the first control electrode of the first switching element and an on-resistance smaller than the on-resistance of the first switching element, said second switching element performing switching according to a control signal input to the second control electrode and controlling outputting the input voltage; a control switching circuit part performing one of a PWM control on both of the first switching element and the second switching element and a PFM control only on the second switching element according to an operating mode so that a voltage output from the output terminal is the predetermined voltage; and a smoothing circuit smoothing a voltage output from each of the first switching element and the second switching element and outputting the smoothed voltage to the output terminal, wherein said control switching circuit part performs said PWM control to increase the voltage from said output terminal step by step from a predetermined first voltage to a second voltage when a first operating mode shifts into a second operating mode, and wherein in said first operating mode, said PFM control is performed and the output voltage from said output terminal is the predetermined first voltage, and in said second operating mode, said PWM control is performed and the output voltage from said output terminal is the second voltage that is larger than the predetermined first voltage as recited in the claims 1-13 of the instant application.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
